Examination & Assessment Policy

This sets rules for designing, running, and grading tests. Key parts include setting clear learning goals, keeping test papers safe, and grading work fairly. It guides schools and testing boards on how to measure what students learn.

Core Rules and Design

- Making Tests: Teachers write questions that match what students were taught and test real skills.
- Checking Quality: Other teachers check the test questions first to make sure they are fair and clear.
- Keeping Secrets: Schools must lock up test papers so no one sees them before the test day.

Rules for the Test Room

- Supervision: Watchers must stop cheating and make sure students work alone.
- No phones: Phones and extra gadgets are not allowed in the test room.
- Fair Rules: If someone breaks a rule, the school follows a clear plan to punish or re-test them.

Grading and Results

- Fair Marking: Teachers grade tests using the same strict rules for every student.
- Checking Scores: A small group checks the final marks to make sure there are no mistakes.
- Appeals: Students can ask to look at their scores again if they think a mistake was made.
